Dear Teri,

It has come to our attention that Amazon has restrained the assets of a merchant by the name of Yanjin-US (Amazon Merchant ID A17JZOCRNF1QD9) pursuant to the October 2021 Preliminary Injunction Order that was granted in this lawsuit. It is our position that this particular storefront should not have its assets restrained. Any asset restraints for other storefronts should remain in place.

Thank you,

Counsel has notified Amazon. Michael and I are researching the appearance issue but I also anticipate a dismissal very soon. We will update you as soon as possible.

Great Thanks, It is good to hear our client is not on the list. So does it means our client doesn't need to pay the settlement fee to the opposing and Maybe they can get award from the opposing and Amazon? Our client account get frozen since Oct 21, 2021.

I can't read the attached image, did they get confirmation of a funds release yet? Ideally, that is the goal here to have them released in full at no cost. They may be able to argue damages for the wrongful restraint. However, they also sold potentially infringing products not subject to the lawsuit so it complicates things a bit.

We would have to risk the pros and cons of going that route.

Hi Travis,
Thanks for the reply.

The attachment is the first TRO notice I first time sent you.

No, they totally not get any notification from Amazon. And our client asked for the retraction proof of the lawsuit from the court or plaintiff. Do you think we can get it today the client keeps pushing for it.

And our client would like to know what part their product is infringing? Could you give advise?

Hey Sarah,
Yes so interestingly when we went to appear, I saw that they are not a listed defendant, and they are not on Schedule A. Thus any judgment and proceeding would not apply to them unless that relation was proven true.

They were restrained due to the relation with those other selling accounts. Now that the restraint should be lifted there should be no issues. No dismissal needed from the court because they are not named.

We still need a full release and still need to ensure they wont be sued. Working on all and will update you ASAP.

Hey Travis,

Thanks for your reply, our client actually hopes to get the proof that they will be not sued again or restrained again, so they wanted to get out of the case completely.
Do you think we can get that documents for our client?

Hey Travis,

Previously you said the counsel has noticed Amazon, could you obtain the proof from the opposing? That could calm down our client.

Of course, see the email attached. This went to Amazon's attorney directly at DWT. I will gather and provide infringement proof as soon as possible.

You can only go to them directly if filing for arbitration or if there is active litigation and you are the filing party.

This is Amazon's in-house attorney. The firm name is Davis Wright Tremaine LLP

Hey Sarah, I just received an email from counsel asking if Amazon released the funds yet. I am assuming they have not given your email. I will absolutely help them follow up and will have Marwa send Amazon another communication. I am going to also seek counsel's direct reply on the release from liability as well.
